Whole School Approach

RISE Newcastle and Gateshead Mental Health in Schools service provides a 'Whole School Approach' for low intensity mental health needs.

Who are RISE?

The RISE team support schools and colleges who are part of the mental health in schools government Mental Health in Schools programme.

Our highly trained Education Mental Health Practitioners (EMHP) work alongside education professionals & parents to create low intensity mental health support for children and young people from primary school age through to further education.

RISE offer a range of therapeutic approaches to encourage children and young people to feel able to manage how they are feeling and have the ability to talk through things that are on their mind. Together with being able to access our RISE website which promotes a wealth of resources to maintain positive emotional health and wellbeing.

How we can help

Our RISE EMHP can offer support through a number of flexible sessions. Our Whole School Approach means we can work directly with the education professionals to set sessions in managing specific issues such as exam stress to a whole class, to working individually with a young person who requires help.

We work closely with parents to build confidence and offer advice and support. Plus liaise other professionals outside of school settings to support signposting children & young people to other services.

The 'whole school approach' includes

- One to one work - for young people who are presenting with low level mental health difficulties and are unable to attend a small group
- Small groups. Deliver small group sessions maximum of 6 children and young people focusing on areas such as anxiety, sleep issues, exam stress and dealing with friendships
- Classes & assemblies. Deliver sessions around transitions, managing exam pressures, friendships and challenging relationships
- Training offer - Training to school staff to deliver sessions which focus on low mood and self-harm

- Digital Offer - Information for parents of good quality Apps and resources that are age appropriate and clinically sound.
